72 Breaths of God

שם המפורש

The 72 Breaths of God or the Shem Ha Mephorash is a practice that originates in the scriptures from Moses. The specific passage Exodus 14:19-21 in the Hebrew version. It has nothing to do with the heterodox practice of the 72 keys of Salomon, nor anything related to angels nor demons. Such views are non-conform to the original practice. The 72 Breaths are neutral, nor virtuous nor vicious. If the practitioner is vicious or has a vicious thought while practicing one of the 72, vicious things will happen and if the practitioner is virtuous, virtuous things will happen. Henceforth it is wise and advisable to be severe in virtue when practicing the 72, and double vigilance and clarity during the days that it is practiced and be responsible when drama arises.

Before practicing this art, it is essential that the letters are thoroughly charged and a deep understanding of the letters of those initiated. The 50 names of God should equally be charged and a diligence in integration and virtuous conduct. It is wise to procure also a book or a reference in your language of choice of the texts of the Sepher Raziel, contemplate and meditate on their cryptic words to further understanding and gain further awareness of their consciousness.
